CONNELL'S EAST INDIAN REMEDIES for the Relief and Cure of LIVER AFFECTIONS, GOUT, HHEUMATISM, and AGUE.

These remedies have come into notice on account of the singular cures they have effected, when all other means failed. The testimonials concerning them are remarkable, owing to the writers being persons so well known in the colonies. In the recent case of "Council v. Hebblewhite," tried in Melbourne (vide Anous of Sth October), under the Trade Marks Act, for using a counterfeit trade mark to a certain wrapper, in which a bottle containing an article Trade Marka Act, for using a counterfeit trade mark to a certain weapper, in which a bottle containing an article called "Ghella's Best India Remedies," was sold, which was decided against Mr. Samuel Hebblewhite, the witnesses called corroborated, on OATH, all that they had previously written in their letters set forth in pamphlet, with 100 other names, most of them distinguished persons.

The pamphlets containing testimenials (and to which is attached an account of the trial taken from the Anove) may be obtained from the various agents throughout the coionies. The particulars of the trial have been published, in order that the public may be guarded against purchasing articles, under the impression that they are receiving Mr. Conteil's valuable remedies.

THE Hunan Hair Strengthened, Embellished, and Preserved by the use of PRATT'S celebrated DE-VONIAN CREAM.

This preparation has now been before the Australian public for upwards of sixteen years, and from its first interduction to the present time the demand for it has been steadily increasing.

The large sale that it commands, and the eulogies which the proprietor frequently receives, incontestably prove the high estimation in which it is held. It possesses the combined advantages of a dandriff lotion and a 5-nutritive scream. It effectually cleanses as well as strengthens the hair.

Prepared exclusively by W. PRATT, Dispensing and Family Chemist, 521, George-street, Sydney.

A YEE'S HAIR VIGOE is the best preparation before the public for strengthening the hair, restoring colour, and causing new growth. Read the following Opinions of the Press:

"In common with many others, we have felt a lively interest in the investigations which Dr. Ayer and Professor Hacfley have been making to discover the causes of failure of the hair, and to provide a remedy. Their researches are easil to have been much more thorough and exhaustive than any ever made before. The result is now before as under the name of Ayer's Hair Vigor. We have given it a trial, and with ful satisfaction. It equal our most favourable anticipations, Our groy hairs have disappeared, or recursed their original colour; and a visible crop of soft silken hair has started on a part of the scalp which was entirely badd,"—DAILT VOICE, Boston.

"The complaints about hair-dressings, and the alarms from their the trial ingredients, make us feel glad to encuence one from a source which will at once assure the public of its value and safety. Dr. J. C. Ayer and Oc, the noted chemists of Massachusetts, have put out their Hair Vigor on trial; and we hear the most faitering onements on its success. Many of our neighbours have used it. Some praise its perfume and other qualities as a dressing; others show their once white or grey hair now restored to its original colour."—Thus, Whitchall, N. X.

a reputation at home and in all the Australian colonies during twenty years.

By its use in bread making the saccharine properties of the flour is preserved. The bread is lighter, more nutritive, and agreeable.

It is a well-known fact that bread made from yeast, it caten before it become stale, ferments in the stomach, producing indigection, and nunacous other complaints. Bread made with this powder does not doe, but, on the contrary, is one of the meal effectual preventives of indigestion. Cakes made with this powder may be eaten hot for breakfast. It is equally valuable in making puddings and pastry, which it degives of all their indigestible properties, and removes all unpleasant taste arising from the use of lard or dripping.

Directions for its use in Bread, Pastry, Puddings, and Cakes are given on each pactage.

Eold by all procers and storckcopers throughout the country in id and 2d packets, and 6d and is time.

Moore's Wharf, 4th March, 1869. THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA TAYLOR BROTHERS, London.

The Cocca (or Cacao) of Maravilla is the true Theobroma of Limneus. Cocca is indigenous to South America, of which Maravilla is a favoured portion. Taylor, Brothers, having secured the exclusive supply of this univalled cocca, have, by the skilful application of their soluble principle and elaborate machinery, produced what is so undensiably the perfection of prepared cocca, that it has not only secured the preference of homeospaths and coocadrinkers generally, but many, who had hitherto not found any preparation to suit them, have, after one trial, adopted the Maravilla Cocca as their constant beverage for breakfast, nuncheon, &c.

the Maravilla Cocca as their constant beverage for breakfast, luncheen, &cc.

A SUCCESS UNFRECEDENTED,

See following Extract from the Globe of May 14, 1868.

Various importers and manufacturers have attempted to attain a reputation for their prepared Coccas, but we doubt whether any theorough success had been achieved until Messrs. Taylor, Brothers discovered the extraordinary qualities of 'Maravilla' Cocca. Adapting their perfact system of preparation to this finest of all species of the Theobroma, they have produced an article which supersedae every other cocca in the market. Entire solubility, a delicate arouns, and a rare concentration of the purest elements of nutrition, distinguish the Maravilla Cocca shove all others. For Homocopaths and invalidate we could not recommend a more agreeable or valuable beverage.

Sold in packets only by all Grocers, of whom also may be had Taylor, Brothers' original Homocopathic Cocca and Soluble Chocolate. Steam Mills, Brick-lane, London.

BAKKER'S new and improved testeless BAKING*

The demand for this most superior Baking Powder increases rapidly, and the proprietor is constantly receiving the most flattering testimonials to its superiority. Sold by grocers and chemists in Sydney, and by store-keepers in the country. Wholesale and retail by manufacturer, W. PARKEK, Balmain.

BICYCLES.

From the AUSTRALASIAN (Victoria) of Saturday last :—
"This race created immense fun. Royal, who had 150 yards, was the first to try the water, and steered his bicycle ospitally, getting well over and keeping a good lead. Many of the others got in, notably Filiasy, who lost all chance thereby. The water had to be negotiated three times, and Royal did it cleverly until the third time, when he was builked, and thus, no doubt, lost the race, as he had to turn and take the other plank. There were no end of spille at the other "obstacles," and a good race ensued at the finish, Campbell winning by a couple of yards, and not a foot separating second and third. "Royal was knocked over at the finish. The plucky riding of this youth was loudly cheered. The fun of the Bicycle Steeplechase, which caused roars of langhter, brought a capital meeting to a close."

It caused the vessel to tremble and shake with a force almost equal to that of going over a reef of rocks, it is not as the contract of the rudder especially being shaken with great violence. The barque was at the time not far from the West Cape, and the weather was very tempesteurs, the wave being described as perfect mountains, and coming up from the N.E.

WHY THE BALLOON COULD NOT ASCEND.

To the Editor of the Herald.

Sin,—1: has often occurred to me as a great pity, that letters appear in newspapers from presons who know nothing of the subject on which they write. Why the balloon could not ascend was simply because it was torn—the term burst is quite inappropriate. Had, the balloon been proporty protected, the accident would not have occurred; but no doubt it was unforeseen.

THE REPUTED POISONED SUGAR.—In consequence of certain statements recently made (says the Aryus), the Victoria Sugar Company have had assuples of their produce analysed by Mr. William Johnstone, analytical chemist, who reports as follows:—"The Secretary, Victoria Sugar Company. Sir.—In obedience to your request that I would examine samples of the various sugars manufactured at your works at Sandridge, I paid a visit to the establishment, and with my own hands selected five different specimens. The whole of these samples contained traces of lime and common sail, the preportion being more perceptible in the darker kinds, but I did not succeed in detecting any trace of assenie or ether poisonous substance by the most careful analysis. Doubtless the addition of a little lime in the early stages of the manufacture, to neutralise the natural actifity of the raw sugar, and to assist in the separation of vegetable impurities, explains the presence of this substance in the perfected article. It is, hewever, perfectly harmless, as is also common sail, the origin of which is traceable to the cane-juice itself. Having inspected every portion of the works, and the different processes of purification used, I have no hesitation in saying it is quife impossible any shareser's could have become mixed with the augar in the process of manufacture.—I am, yours obediently, William Johnson, Government Analytical Chemist."

THE last story from France is that the Opposition has a working majority. The next news will perhaps tell us in what manner it is employed. The course of affairs in France employed. The course of affairs in France has commonly been reform as the first stage, and then revolution. But there are more kinds of revolutions than one. The great question will remain to be resolved—what concessions from the Imperial Court will satisfy the concessions of the Linear leaves the concessions of the concession of the concessions of the concession of will satisfy the cravings of the Liberal party and yet leave the Government power to main-tain its existence; or whether meeting revolution on the threshold the EMPEROR shall try the potency of force, and bring into the Imperial Government more of the regimen of the CASARS than has hitherto been attempted. The theory of the English Constitution, which leaves all honour to the Crown, and confides all power to the people, has not yet proved adapted to the temper of France. Whenever the changes which are supposed to be neces-sary to satisfy the people are fairly proposed, the Imperial dynasty will have a serious task It must then choose reform with all its risks and there are many; or it must rely upon shee steel, and realise the uneasy position to which Prince TALLEXBAND referred, when he said that "a government of bayones was goed for everything but to sit upon." It is probable that the EMPEROR has thought of the possibility of a fate similar to many of his predecessors. Were he certain that no reconciliation is possible between his dynasty and the Liberals of France, who under various names and forms continually assail him, he would hardly give them more power. He would then employ his treasures, his influence, and his authority to repress their efforts. It is, however, a sad task for the man who has travelled through sixty years—and such years—to be obliged, with broken health and hopeless disease, to struggle against a revolutionary spirit—a task from which he might be expected to shrink, were not his parental affection an overmastering passion. Every dynasty that has various names and forms continually not his parental affection an overmaster-ing passion. Every dynasty that has tried to govern France through liberty has, from one cause or another, utterly failed. Each dynasty in turn would have been glad to relax its reins, but the moment it attempted to do so, the car of State was whirled along to destruction. It is not that the great body of Frenchmen would not gladly compound with the Government but is the the great body of Frenchmen would not gladly compound with the Government, but in the impetus of a popular movement middle men are always swept away. When two parties are cool and when their objects, secret or open, are the same, arrangement is possible, and not un-likely to be lasting. But when no such dis-tinct purpose or such limited views inspire the party, the most resolute, the most violent spirits are victorious. Nothing, therefore, re-mains for those who have governed by force but to hold the reins fast, with the possibility of their snapping by the tension, or to let the popular will run to its utmost length, which in France has always proved to be revolution. Unfortunately there is no such class in France as in England swaying from side to side, according as it may appear necessary France as in England swaying from side to side, according as it may appear necessary to preserve public order; warmly attached to liberty, especially to personal freedom, and at the same time willing to submit to whatever deductions are required, that the rest may be secure. In France no Government cherishes or relies upon the municipal spirit. When it falls, it falls en masse. The whole of the functionaries of the State receive a new inspiration, and the streets resound with new cries. Scarcely are the placards upon ceive a new inspiration, and the streets resound with new cries. Scarcely are the placards upon the walls proclaiming the Republic softened by the rain, before they are torn down by the police, and some other idol is in the ascendant. The world is destined to change, but it is all the difference whether the change is like the mutations of the human bady or not. It may be more developed. bedy or not. It may be more developed, and the strength increased, with years—a slow process changing the countenance, but still so gradually that mutation escapes the most watchful eye. But this is not the way with politics in France.

There are still enthusiasts who have lost no confidence in the Republic. The history of its fall, of course, has only been written by its enemies. The vices which it revealed were set who reports as follows:—"The Secretary, Victoria Sugar fight of course, has only been written by its would examine samples of the various sugars manufactors of a the serious sugars manufactors of the various who prefer the Republic to every other. Whatever may be the wishes of the majority of the various sugars of the warners of government, and the Red Republic to every other. Great stress is laid by those who when the forms of government, and the first of the various sugars of the manufactors of the variou outbreak? Would the soldiers act against the people? They have done so before, and they may do so again. There is, however, a danger even in their success, because the heart of a Frenchman is always turned against the power that makes him kill his countymen, and no soldiers act against the power that makes him kill his countymen, and no soldiers act against the power that makes him kill his countymen, and no soldiers act against the power that makes him kill his countymen. his countrymen, and no burden would press more heavily upon the Imperial dynasty than the reproach of shedding the blood of the citizens.

It is, however, shown by past revolutions that if they obtain temporary success, the Government is lost. It is not a long contest; but short, sharp, and decisive. The soldiery may disperse a mob, but let one or two regiments espouse the popular cause, and their comrades will be immediately paralysed; and before the close of the dwill interpret. and before the close of the day it is not unlikely the troops will pass over in a body to await the orders of the Provisional Government. A Republican Government is usually that established by the interim Administration. The restless ambition of equals contexding for superiority at last awakens in the general public the desire for unity and strength. The wild gesticulations of ora'ors, the insane ravings of the Press, and the impossible schemes of reconstruction, produce a leastlying of the oathing of the very form and name of a republic: and the old round of monarchy combating sedition has to be gone over again. combating section has to be gone over again. Spain has declared itself a monarchy by a large majority, but no candidate has yet fixed the popular choice. A military repression for the present subdues the revolutionary fanaticism; but it does not give any premise of settlement or permanence. Every plan of pacification, however, seems to have in it the seeds of disorder and discontent.

nowever, seems to have in it the seeds of dis-order and discontent.

It was said by PRINCE ALBERT that repre-sentative institutions were on their trial. He gave great offence; but if not words wisely speken in his position, they were, and still are, the inevitable result of a calm and general survey of the state of the world. These institu-catative institutions were on their trial. He gave great offence; but if not words weight picken in his position, they were, and still are, he inevitable result of a cale and general unvey of the state of the world. These institutions are also to the many that the three process has considered by the corrupt, the ambitious, and the arrival measurable.

It is present Ministry in Victoria, which is to some extent a Ministry without a party, and the first the process has been performed facilities—to pass a new Land Law. The case with which the process has been performed facilities—to pass a new Land Law. The case with which the process has been performed facilities—to pass a new Land Law. The case with the Ministry, not being in an attitude of matter had been substantially alapsed that the cost of a few compromises, to get the bull through that Chamber. The measure is to some extent an advance, and have the cost of a few compromises, to get the bull through that the cost of a few compromises, to get the bull through that the cost of a few compromises, to get the bull through that the cost of a few compromises, to get the bull through that the cost of a few compromises, to get the bull through that several of the Ministry and been substantially alapsed that the cost of a few compromises, to get the bull through the contract of the substantial means to some extent an advance, and the cost of the substantial means to work the substantial through the cost of the substantial means to two while the substantial mea to be neglected, or at any rate to be indefinitely postponed. It is not an unwholesome discipling to be kept strictly up to the mark, and those who would fail in meeting the easy terms prescribed by the law would be generally those who were not fit to tackle the land, and who would be better off in other pursuits. On the waole, therefore, a rigorous exaction of the payments is the most beneficent policy.

Another point on which the Victorian law differs from ours is in the kind of title and tenure given to the selector. It is well known that there has been a great deal of discussion and litigation in this colony as to the legal status of a "conditional purchaser," who appeared to the Courts neither to be a leaseholder nor a freeholder. One of the measures that has been hanging fire in Parliament for the last two years, and that will claim attention from the new Assembly, is intended to cut the gordian knot of this difficulty, by declaring that the conditional purchaser, whatever he may be, shall have the rights of a freeholder. The Victorian law is quite different. There, the selector is merely a "licensee" till he gets his full title. He is not a freeholder, and is not even a leaseholder. He occupies the ground under Government surveillance, and for committing any breach of the conditions can be turned off. He can, however, reduce this period of occupation by license to three years by paying up the remaining fourteen shillings an acre in cash, But period of occupation by license to three years by paying up the remaining fourteen shillings an acre in cash. But if he cannot do that, or prefers to go en paying by instalments, he must continue under the same tenure. The object of this close and suspicious vigilance in Victoria is to prevent the capitalist from surreptitiously getting hold of the land. The selector is treated as a party who may be at any time disposed or tempted to play into; the hands of the squatter and to prevent this the Government keeps the rein tight on him till he becomes an actual freeholder, after which of course he is free to sell or mortgage his land if he likes.

This makes free selection much less i jurious to the squatters, as fencing is encouraged, and at once puts a stop to mutual impoundings.

The Victorian selector is bound to occupy and improve, but he is allowed six months to begin. The phrase of our law bona fide residence is not adopted, but in lien thereof the term "occupy" is defined to mean "residing thereon in his own proper person." But this leaves untouched all the ambiguity attaching to the word "reside." What is "residing"? In this colony "residence" has come to have quite a new meaning to what it had before the Land Law passed. Some understand by it sleeping on the ground once a month, or once a year, the proprietor being unavoidably detained away from the charms of his home by calls elsewhere. Improvements have been very carefully defined in the Victorian Act, and it is comparatively easy for any Inspector and it is comparatively easy for any Inspector to see whether, in this respect, the Act has been carried out; but as to residence there will always be room for evasion.

The area to be selected in Victoria is limited to 320 acres, and no minors or married women are allowed to take up land as licensees.

In three very important particulars then it will be seen that the Victorian law differs from ours. It gives no indefinite status to the selector, it gives him no indefinite grazing right, and it gives him no indefinite credit.

As to the squatters, they are called upon to pay eight-pence per head for every sheep, and four shillings for every head of cattle which the run is declared capable of holding. They are not to taboo from selection, under the excuse of improvements, more than 640 acres on one run, and they are to be allowed acres on one run, and they are to be allowed for ten years, that is to the end of 1880, a yearly license, subject of course to the incursions of the selector. Probably by that date there will not be many runs left worth quartelling about.

CAPTAIN COOK STATUE COMMITTER.—Yesterday of the Captain Cook Statue Committee was held at the Supreme Court House, King-atreet, his Honor Sir Alfred Stephen, C.B. and C.J., in the chair. The Claimman explained to the Committee that about £1000 had already been contributed and expended upon the shaft and pedestal of the proposed monument to the illustrious circumnavigators, who had insortalized himself as the discoverer of Eastern Australia. £500 mer was now immediately required to complete the proposed shaft, which was (like the basement) to be of granite. To raise this necessary sum he suggested that circulars should at once be printed, and letters be written, and that an active canvass for subscribers should forthwith be recommenced. A discussion then ensued on what was proposed, in which his Honor, Captain Watson, Mr. Alderman Day, Mr. Edward Sadler, and Mr. E. B. Smith took part. Ultimately the "appeal" suggested by the Chairman was unanimously adopted. On the motion of Captain Watson, Seconded by Mr. Alderman Day, the name of Mr. Edward Butler (the barrister) was added to the committee. Mr. Butler entered the room after his election, and expressed his willingness to co-operate in endesswuring to raise the required sum—£600. The "appeal" proposed to be made was to the following effect:—"The committee carnestly appeal to the public for subscriptions to this national work. The column (shaft and pedestal) will unitedly be twenty-one feet in height; and of this, only eleven feet have been completed. It is now accessary to easier minute access will be £500. It is for our fellow-colonists to decide, therefore, whether the undertaking—commenced under such favourable anapicas—shall or shall not be at once proceeded with. AN INCIDENTAT THE TURKIER BATH.—We clip the following from the Mobart Town Movemy of Tuesday:—On Friday last, added day at the Turkish baths, while some ladies who are in the habit of attending there, were as usual enjoying the luxury of the bath, they were joined by a young girl whose bashful appearance and evident ignorance of the bathing process induced the more experienced ledies to profer both advice and assistance. The one was implicitly followed and the other gratefully received, but by-and-bys their ald was required in a manner and matter they had not calculated on. The result was that before the young lady left the bathroom there was a visitor there who had not paid for admission, and Hobart Town had an addition made to its population.

LOST IN THE BUSH FOR EIGHTEEN DAYS.—It is stated in a Queensland journal, the Warnick Examiner, that the itilite girl who was lost in the bush at Accels Creek was found on Wedenday last, after wandering about since the 20th December, having been absent for eighteen days. Bhe was found by a little boy about half a nulle from theeld Korcelsh head station. She states that she has had nothing to eat but some berries, which she picked from some bushes the first day she was iost. She got into the scrub the first day she was lost, and could not find her road out till four or live days after. She them wandered about on the mountains, and found plenty of water but had nothing to eat. She was quite sensible when found, but was midring from severe cuts on the feet and ankles. Her head and face were young the serversh boils were breaking out near her forehead. Tith joy of her parents may be better imaginad than described, and the neighbours were relieved of a feeling of malancholy which they had felt for several days. We understand that the Tenterfield police were information of the learning of the latter of the New South Wales police are; but if our information be

THE LATE FIRE AT GRESPORD.—The Paterson correspondent of the Maistland Mercury reports that "Mr. Frankland held a magisterial inquiry at Emersid Vale, near Gresford, on Friday last, respecting the recent item which Mr. Rowlan's bear and whost were desiredyed on the night of the 3rd instant. I have been unable to learn what decision was arrived at by the inquiry, but have been informed no further particulars were elicited as to the origin of the fire than were contained in my report of the occurrence. Everyone around the vicinity asoms convinced that it was the work of an incendiary, but no clue whatever has been obtained as to the perpetrator of the villainous act. We learn that serveral of the residents of the district are endeavouring to raise funds to offer a suitable reward for the discovery of the misereant who committed the deaf, and we have no doubt the amount collected will be supplemented by an amount from Government, which we hope will be the means of bringing the vile perpetrator to justice, whilst contributions have been solicited for the reward fund. The unfortunate family, who have lost their entire wheat crop, have not been forgotion, but contributions on their behalf have been solicited, and very warmly responded to by very liberal subscriptions from our residents."

papers come, and hence it looks as if the public voice was entirely with Mr. Hayward, and that the Bishop was almost alone and unsupported. This, however, is by no means the case. Regarded simply as an administrative matter, spart from its religious aspect, and viewed from the stand-point of the persons who write most of the letters, the case seems a hard one for "the good deacon," as Mr. Hayward is styled, as it amounts practically to an expulsion from the calling which he has adopted and by which he and his family subsist. The difference, however, between the advocates of Mr. Hayward and the fact that the latter consider the question of doctrine as all-important, while the former assume that a clergyman is not amenable for his belief. For some years past Bishop Perry has been periodically abused for his apparent impotency to suppress objectionable practices in the Church, and the question has often been asked of what use is a bishop if he cannot control his clergy? He has certainly discountenanced the tendency to childish ceremonies and the display of "millinery" on the part of Ritualists, as well as the conversion of the Church services into Sunday concerts; but some of the clergy still defy the Bishop, and indulge in processions of surpliced men and boys with crosses and mummeries, and as many other imitations of the Romish Church as their congregations will bear. Mr. Hayward belongs, in sympathy, to this party, but he has been hitherto restrained from the more demonstrative exhibitions of his bias from the fact that he merely holds a temporary license to preacn and is only in deacon's orders. Herethen preach and is only in deacon so the considers heresy, and if he still failed in using his authority, he

OUR MELBOURNE LETTER.

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 19 Our political situation has in no way change during the past week. The two Ministers who failed to obtain seats are still in offi e, and the contemplated additions to, or reconstruction of the Cabinet, which have furnished the Press with daily matter for comment, have not take lace, although it is now said that something definite will be done this afternoon. Any addiwould not be likely to strengthen the hands of the Ministry, but a reconstruction involving an amalgamation with the Constitutionalists might have that effect. The difficulty in either case, however, arises from the unwillingness of members to face their constituents with a tolerable certainty of having to incur a second election bill almost before the first could be paid Nobody considers it probable, although it is just possible, that through a wholesome dread of going to the country a majority of the Assembly may be willing to give their support to the Ministry for a time.

The smaller lights of the late M'Culloch Ministry try, however, cannot patiently endure their present total eclipse, and in their eagerness to give the country the full advantage of their effulgence they will leave no exertion untried to displace the present men. The latter may, therefore, have to ask the Governor for a dis-solution, and as neither Mr. Macpherson nor Mr. M'Culloch can command a working majo Mr. M'Culloch can command a working majo-rity, and the present Parliament was the result of an appeal by the late Administration, the new men would appear to be constitutionally entitled to the dissolution. As matters at present stand there is a strong disposition on the part of the present Ministry to boldly meet Parliament at the end of the present month, after a single month's recess, and challenge the Opposition to the threatened trial of strength on the Address. This mustering of the antagonistic forces will enable them to test at once their real strength or weakness, and the at once their real strength of weathers, and appossibility of a coalition which would consolidate their position will then be ascertainable. If this should prove impracticable they will probably take to themselves certain other probably take to themselves certain other gentlemen of their own party, who would thus have only one appeal to make to their consti-uents, and they would then go to the country as a complete Ministry of "Independent Liberals." It is very difficult in the present state of parties to prognosticate the ultimate result of a general election, but it is not at all improbable that the present men would come back quite as strong as the M'Cullochites proper, and the Constitu-tionalists would then have the balauce of power in their own hands, which they would be muc nore disposed to use in favour of keeping Mr Macpherson in office than in restoring Mr. M'Culloch and his men, some of whom have rendered themselves extremely obnoxious The latter are mostly confident that the popular constituencies will be got to respond still to the old cry, and elect stanch McCullochites—that the party will, in fact, secure the same over-whelming majorities now as when the Darling delusion was so strong upon the people. They thus hope to secure a sufficient majority to defeat the Independents and the Constitutionalists combined

A political demonstration of a somewhat unusual character is to take place to-morrow. The Ministers have been invited to a banquet at Eaglehawk, one of the suburbs of Sandhurst; but the borough of Sandhurst, as well a the group of boroughs in its neighbourhood, are all represented in the Assembly by stanch supporters of the late Government—two late Ministry. The old M'Culloch party are furious at this invasion of their territory, and the loyal liberals have convened a meeting to be held at the same hour as the banquet, which he Age says will be a most momentous political demonstration. The Independent Liberals, how ever, say it will end in political smoke. The attempts made to get up any enthusiasm in favour of the late dominant party have certainly failed bitherto.

The state of our Exchequer at the close of 1869, discloses a very healthy condition of things. Mr. Cohen, the Commissioner of Cus toms, stated in the Assembly a few weeks ago that a surplus of about £200,000 would be toms, stated in the Assembly a lew weeks ago that a surplus of about £200,000 would be shown at the end of the year. The actual surplus according to the published balance sheet is about £188,000, and there are items of various about £188,000, and there are items of various kinds which will bring it up to the round sum mentioned by Mr. Cohen. The plethora of money at the command of the Government may be imagined from the fact that the aggregate of the balances to their credit at the variou banks at this moment is over a million sterling This is made up of actual surplus, unexpende thousand raised by the last loan and at presen

The announcement made by the Sydney Morning Herald that a quasi Intercolonial Con-ference had been held at Sydney by representaives of New South Wales, Queensland, and New Zealand, took us all by surprise. That a conference of representatives from all the colonies had been the subject of interminable negotiations for a long time past, and that it had been postponed from time to time, everybody knew well enough; nor were we in ignorance of the fact that a couple of Ministers from New Zealand had paid us a flying visit, which visit had something to do with the long-deferred Conference; still, however, the sudden announcement of an actual Conference, at which a series of important resolutions, affecting the whole of the colonies, had been arrived at, was more than we were prepared for. Upon some of the questions it is probable that there will be no serious obstacle to a general agreement. When we are told that Victoria is asked to contribute £6000 yearly towards a mail service by way of Honolulu and San Francisco, the response of the public mind appears to be that we should do it. That whether we get value we should do it. That whether we get value for our money or not, the pleasure and advantages of friendly co-operation with the eastern colonies is quite sufficient to justify so small an expenditure. Dr. Knight will therefore have very little difficulty with our Government if he can satisfactorily clear up a doubt which seems to present itself on the very surface of the arrangement, and which appears, by some stranges oversight to have account. or the arrangement, and which appears, by some strange oversight to have escaped the consideration of the gentlemen who met to discuss the matter in Sydney. When the matter was being talked over yesterday between Dr Knight and our Chief Secretary, the Doctor appeared to be unable to give any definite information as to whether the scheme included the transit of mails from San Francisco to Regulard. transit of mails from San Francisco to England. The terms of the contract refer only to the conveyance of mails and passengers between Sydney, Auckland, and San Francisco. From Sydney, Auckiand, and San Francisco. From the latter port passengers are to be taken on to England at fixed rates, but nothing is said about any arrangement for carrying the mails across the American continent and on to Europe. Of course this colony would stipulate for the conveyance of mails all through if they consented to subsidise the service. Dr. Knight is, I believe, now communicating with Sydney about this little difficulty. Any stranger taking up a file of the Argus of a "Victorian Academy of Art." or Daily Telegraph would imagice that the twenty crists and amateurs enrolled the Church was really in danger. Letters piled on at a preliminary meeting held the other. wenty artists and amateurs enrolled themselves twenty artists and amateurs entous at a preliminary meeting held the other evening, and when the rules are completed the consisting will be considerably enlarged. We may, therefore, expect in future to have our annual Exhibitions, Art Union, and other signs f earnestness and activity amongst the students and friends of painting; and it is hoped that the new institution will contribute its quota of sfluence in elevating and improving the taste of the general community. INTERCOLONIAL AGREEMENTS.

About a week ago we gave a brief outline of certain negotiations which had been entered into by the Governments of New South Wales, New Zealand, and Queensland in reference to the catablishment of two new land in reference to the establishment of two new mail services—one to Europe via Torres Straits, and the other to San Francisco via New Zealand— and the construction of a telegraphic line from the Gulf of Carpentaria to Batavia, which would bring the Australian colonies en repport with Great Britain. Being now in possession of full and authestic in-formation as to what has actually been done by the three powers above mentioned, and also as to what they purpose doing, we hasten to lay the results of our inquiries before the readers of the Haraid.

TELEGRAPHIC COMMUNICATION BETWEEN AUSTRALIA

AND OBERT DRITAIN.

For some months past the Governments of New South Wales and Queensland have been consulting together as to the expediency of constructing a telegraphic line from the Gulf of Carpentaria to India via the Dutch colony of Ba-Gulf of Carpentaria to India via the Dutch colony of Batavia. In August last year, Mr. Bobertson, who was then the Premier and Colonial Secretary of New South Wales, visited Brisbase, had several interviews with the members of the Queensland Executive, and opened negotiations upon this and other important questions. During the following month the Hon. John Douglas, Postmater-General of Government, renewed the negotiations which Mr. Robertson had begun. The importance of the subject was fully recognised. It was felt that a scheme which had been submitted to the various that a scheme which had been submitted to the various Colonial Governments, for connecting Australasia with the mother country by a telegraphic wire, was feasible and worthy of earnest consideration. The scheme in question was proposed to the colonies by Mr. Frazer, of Batavia, who has supplied the different Cabinets with detailed information upon all the main points of his project. Mr. Frazer, who is now in London, and who expects that the Government of Batavia will co-operate in carrying out his design, proposes to connect Batavia with the Northern coast of Australia by means of a submarine cable, to continue the wire across the island of Java, and thence to the Indian lines which are already connected with Europe. The estimated cost of this work is stated at and thence to the Indian lines which are already connected with Europe. The estimated cost of this work is stated at £500,000, which sum Mr. Frazer proposes should be provided on the guarantee of the Dutch Government conjointly with the Governments of the several Australian colonies. Another mode of effecting the same object has been proposed by Captain Sherard Osborns, who advocates alternative routes based upon subsidies varying in amount from £55,000 to £47,000 per year—these subsidies to be furnished wholly by the Australian colonies. There are now three cables laid across the Atlantic Ocean, and the Telegraphic Maintenance these subsidies to be furnished wholly by the Australian colonies. There are now three cables laid across the Atlantic Ocean, and the Telegraphic Maiotenance and Construction Company, by whom these ocean lines were

The replies were the reverse of satisfactory, and the Bishop then told him that as he could not induct him into priests order's to teach error, and as he could not allow so important a parish to be any longer without a clergyman in full orders, the license to Mr. Hayward must be withdrawn. The opponents of the Bishop say that he is thus assuming the infallibility of Pope, and at the same time playing the tyrant. The Bishop stands aloof from the controversy in the public press, but in the approaching session of the Canada Assembly, he will probably deliver himself of his reasons, and we shall also know the actual confession of faith of the meantime, however, the Ritualistic party have received a quiet rebuke from the parishioners of Mr. Hayward. They should know better than strangers what grounds there these subsidies to be farmished wholly by the Australian colonies. There are now three cables laid across the Atlantic Ocean, and the Telegraphic Maiatenance and Construction Company, by whom these cosan lines were laid, are now connecting Sues with Adea and Bombay.

The Governments of the Southern colonies do not appear to have viewed Mr. France's scheme with very great favour. They have manifested some inclination to adopt the suggestion of Captain Osborne in preference to the other. But the Governments of the Northern colonies—that is to say, New South Wales and Queenaland—have from the first beautiful the Colonies, and the Captain osborne, and the colonies—that is to say, New South Wales and Queenaland—have from the first beautiful the Colonies, and Mr. Robertson, on behalf of this colony, and Mr. Dougre—on behalf of Queensland, agreed to a memorandum which —iffed their confidence in the scheme originated by Mr. Frazer. That memorandum suggested that in spite of the hesitancy of the Southern colonies with reference to this matter, the constant is a secund two seconds of Victoria, South Australia, and Tasmanis, though not at present included in the arrangement may at any future time take their share of the English though not at these upon paying their share of the supenses. Beyond this the Government of Queenaland were to construct at their own cast a land line through their northern territory to Normaniown or to some other eligible site upon the shores of the Gulf. The memorandum stated that the scale of charges payable on the section between Australia and Java, should be fixed by the guarantors, but should be from time to time subject to revision. This memorandum was agreed to by the Quincanteral backway and the Governments of Victoria, Tasmania, and South Australis, and New Zealand, the contract of the two colonies, and the Government of Victoria, Tasmania, and South Australis and New Zealand, the colonies should be represent rates, but that there were soughted to the supportion of the Roya dilinguing the are for the Bishop's course of action, and at a meeting on Monday evening they decided by two to one in favour of sending six delegates to confer with the Bishop as to the clergyman who should be appointed to the incumbency. The tone of the meeting was very conciliatory, and although sympathy was expressed with the gentleman who was about to leave them, and it was tacitly agreed that that sympathy should take a substantial form, there was still a very decided feeling evinced to co-operate cordally with the Bishon is security the saviety. with the Bishop in securing the services of a good minister. Whatever controversies may, good minister. Whatever controversies may, therefore, still be carried on about the Bishop and the Deacon they will be conducted outside the parish in which the case has occurred. We are not content with the progress we have already made in meat preserving, nor is the public disposed to believe that we have exhausted all the available processes for accom-We may after plishing the purpose in view. We may after all come back to the two or even one of the processes which have been hitherto tried, but as so many devices are continually coming before us, each one promising to be channel and better than the rest, it is likely that some of them will find friends and capital to test their efficacy. Two new companies are now taking the field. One of them has in fact taking the field. One of them has in fact already occupied the ground for a few weeks to some purpose, having shipped off sixteen tons of meat by the Agamemnon, which has just sailed for London. This new company is called "The Australia Felix Company," and its process is that of boning the meat steening it is bring, rolling it and mitted at 1s. 0d. for every ten words, and 6d. for every additional ten words.

Subsequently to the adoption of the above-mentioned memorandum by the conference, Mr. Robertson addressed letters to the delegates from New Zealand and Queensland, pointing out that there was a possibility of Mr. Frazer failing in his negotiations with the Dutch Government, that that Government might prefer to deal directly with the Governments of the contracting colonies, and that, therefore, these contracting colonies should plotge themselves to carry out Mr. Frazer's coheme, even without the intervantion of Mr. Frazer's coheme, over without the intervantion of Mr. Frazer's coheme, when without he intervantion of Mr. Prazer himself. Mr. Robertson also suggested that so soon as the several Cabinets had approved of the scheme, the Dutch Government should be communicated with, and made acquainted with all that had been done here. the meat, steeping it in brine, rolling it, and then packing it in refined tallow, following in fact the same system almost identically as the old Victoria Company. The other new com-pany is to be called the "Australian Company," and its process will be more analogous to that of the "Melbourne" Company, namely preserving in tins, but there is something sp about it which is the invention of the promoter, Mr. Patrick Hayes. His invention has been here.

Mr. Patrick Hayes. His invention has been tested by sending specimens of the meat on voyages from which it has come back perfectly sound. Whether it will prove as effective and economical a process on a large scale as that of the Melbourne Company, managed by Mr. Rittchie, remains to be seen.

Is it not time that New South Wales did something to lessen the distance between this colony and herself in the matter of literature and the arts? The proposed additions to the Australian Museum for which Mr. Barnet is preparing designs, is a step which, to an observer in this colony seems a necessary but a very tardy one. To associate with the Public Library and Museum a Gallery of Sculpture and another of Paintings is what we have done some years since, and as we are by no means stationary, but perpetually enlarging and accumulating, it will take New South Wales a long time to overtake us, even if she exhibit tenfold the earnestness she does at present. One natural consequence of the inatitution of a Public Gallery of Art is the increase in the number of Art students and the creation of a new race of local painters. Even our artisans have their School of Design, in which drawing from nature is being extensively practised. Another very distinctive evidence of our progress is the establishment amongst our artists.

New Zealand, however, only agrees to this arrangement on condition that Queeneland and New South Wales assist her in establishing and keeping up a mail service between Sydney, Auckland, and California. The three colonies have therefore, by their delegates, consented to the following arrangement: New Zealand is to contribute three-fifths of the coat of this Californian mail service; New Scuth Wales and Queensland are jointly to centribute the retusining two-fifths, with the provise that the cost to the latter colonies shall not exceed $10,000 per year. The mail steamers are not to remain at Auckland more than thirty hours, nor are they to occupy more than six days in voyaging from Sydney to Auckland, or size rersa. New Zealand is to arrange with the non-contracting colonies as to the conveyance of their mails, and pending such arrangements the mails are not to be forwarded by New South Wales. The memorandum propose that the Parliament here shall be asked to saucition the arrangement for five years; from the commencement of the service that until such sanction is obtained the mails be carried by special agreement; and that New Zealand must not be expected to carry the mails of this colony free of charge until effect is given to the memorandum. Bach colony having joined in the contract is to be on a level as regarder rights, privileges, and controlling powers; and the memorandum was on the 7th instant approved of by the New South Wales Cabinet.

Cabinet.

On the 12th instant Mr. J. Vogel, the Postmaster-General of New Zealand, addressed a letter to Mr. Robertson, enclosing a copy of the contract entered into with Mr. H. H. Hall for this Californian mail service. Mr. Vogel's letter suggested that, pending the proposed permanent arrangement, New South Wales should, month by month, contribute to the extent of the specified $10,000 for twelve services. Mr. Robertson, in reply, said that the Government had ne authority to do that, but that the Postmaster-General would be saked to give, by departmental arrangement, whatever allowance he osuid fairly and legally make.

This postal service may be regarded as established, the contract having been completed, and arrangements made for dispatching the first mail early in March next.

INTERCOLONIAL AND FORMON TREATIES.

At the same conference, the delegates agreed to a memorandum setting forth the desirability of the several colonial Governments uniting in an appeal to the Imparial authorities with regard to certain disadvantages under which the colonies labour. The power of these colonies to make arrangements for the interchange of their produce duty free, has been questioned; and they are not enabled to make treaties with foreign nations. Canada does not occupy the same unfavourable position, and it is considered right that the Australian colonies should have the same privileges as Canada. It is desirable, too, that the Imporial autherities should ald the colonies in making treaties with foreign powers; and that such aid should be at once granted, by facilitating negociations with the United States, with the object of allowing wool, the product of Australia, to enfor that country duty free. The memorandum also suggested that the United States (overnment should be at once asked to admit Australian wool duty free into their ports. If further advised that legislative provision should be made by the Imperial Government to enable trustoes to invest trust moneys in colonial securities; that steps should be taken to facilitate the arrest of offenders passing from one colony to another; and that all the colonies should be invited to sid in promoting these objects. This memorandum was, on the 7th instant, agreed to by the Unbert of this colony.

MR. COWPER AGAIN AT FAULT.

To the Editor of the Herald.

To the Editor of the Heraid.

Sin,—I am surprised that so eminent a "lawyer" as Mr. Cowper should have so misunderstood Lord Bury's case as he has done. The second writ in that case was not issued until the fourteen days had expired—for Parliament met on the 31st May, 1859, when all the returns at the general election (Lord Bury's included) were brought in, and the writ was ordered on the 22nd June, 1859—three weeks afterwards. The point in that case and in Mr. Knatchbull-Hugessen's, which stood on the same footing, was not whether a new writ could be issued before the expiration of the fourteen days—for no such thing was attempted—but whether, after the fourteen days and while a petition in which the potitioner did not himself claim the seat was pending against the return, a new writ could issue. The House held that as the seat was not claimed the writt might issue; but this was after the fourteen days had expired. This case is therefore another authority against the course takes by this was after the fourteen days had expired. This case is therefore another suthority against the ocurse taken by Lord Belmore on Mr. Cowper's advice. The very day before (the 21st June), Mr. Brand, speaking on behalf of the New Ministers, said, "The Houge is away with the total be insued for the election of the expiration of suttoons was atter the meeting of Parament." Mr. Cowper ought to have been equally aware that no new writ could issue for Liverpool Plains until the Expiration of equal women after the own roture. 1 am, Sir, your obedient servant,

JAMES MARTIN. Chambers, 21st January.

To the Editor of the Herald.

Sin,—Mr. Cowper is not happy in selecting the case of Viscount Bury, 1850, as an illustration of his own position, with regard to the offset of the issue of a new writ before the period fixed by law for the presentation of petitions questioning the validity of elections. Mr. Cowper, in stating the case, has not placed it in its integrity before the public.

stating the case, has not placed it in its integrity before the public.

In the case of Viscount Bury, the period above mentioned had expired; a petition against his return, and that of the other member for the same borough, had been received and referred to the committee on Elections and Qualifications, when he accepted office and resigned his seat. No question was raised with regard to the issue of a writ in his case, but on the same day a long debate took place on a motion for a new writ for the borough of Sandwich, in the place of Mr. Hugessen, who had also accepted office. The cases were exactly similar, and the principles laid down in this debate with regard to the one are held applicable to the other. The issue of the writ in both cases was based upon a ruling of the Speaker in the case of the borough of Sonthampton in 1832, in which Mr. Speaker said "that in the case of an election petition complaining of an undure return, or of the return of a member in consequence of brilerry, but not claiming the seat for another person, it was competent for the House to order a new writ to issue, adding that in the case where the petition claimed the sont for another person "it is not competent for the House to order a new writ to issue, inasmuch as the House in that case cannot know which of the two persons claiming the seat had been duly elected."—Hansard, 3rd series, vol. 154-149-455.

Viscount Bury was again returned on the second election, and the committee having received on the first restriction.

Viscount Bury was again returned on the second election, and the committee having reported on the first petition, that the election of both members in the first selection was void, on the ground that the allegation of bribery had been proved, Viscount Bury did not venture to take has seat, because the provisions of the Corrupt Practices Act had rendered him incapable of sitting in that Parliament. Although the matter was frequently brength before the House—although the petition against the second election claimed the seat for another candidate—no report upon this petition was ever brought up, no new writ was ever moved for, and the borough was virtually disfranchised.

The constitutional principle which was challenged in Mr. Cowper's case—viz., the right to issue a writ before the priod fixed by law for questioning the validity of an election had expired—never arose in Viscoust Bury's case; and therefore there is nothing analogous in it. Bury's case; and therefore there is nothing analogous in it.
The fact adduced by Mr. Cowper to prove that no question affecting his previous election was likely to arise is rather amusing. He quotes the application of his antagoniat to be appointed "postman at Tamworth" as a conclusive proof that no such question was likely to arise. Had it not occurred to him that this night be an intimation from the applicant of the terms on which he would abandon his right of petition? Or why should the application have been made to him, unless the party, recollecting that the administration of justice had been absorbed into the Colonial Secretary's office, has supposed that the same process was to be repeated with the Post Office?

OWING to the continued increase of business combined with the result of the application of ready-money principle in buying and selling, J. TURNER, the proprietor of the MARKET CLOTH HALL, is now enabled to supply all goods throughout the stock at fully 10 per cent, less this year than has hitherto been charged, without in any way compromising his fame for the superior make, at les, and finish of all garments made at the above catabilishment, the reduction in price being effected by having the goods manufactured expressly to his own orders, and thereby saving to his customers the amount usually charged by merchants for importing.

J. T. has now on hand the largest and most magnificent stock of woollens in the colony to select from, an inspection of which is respectfully invited. The trade and public supplies with cut lengths or piece at wholesale prices.

All goods are well shrunk before made up.

The most talented cutters in the colony are employed, and perfection is obtained by each having charge of the garment they are most takiful at cutting. The very large business of the Market Chath Hall has in that respect an advantage that cannot fall to give universal satisfaction.
